

Julian Gwyn Essay Prize in Baptist and Anabaptist History and Thought

The Acadia Centre for Baptist and Anabaptist Studies (ACBAS) is pleased to offer an annual prize competition in the general field of Baptist and Anabaptist history and thought, especially in Canada's Atlantic region. We are particularly interested in submissions that situate their subject within a historical context and framework.

The annual Julian Gwyn Prize in Baptist and Anabaptist History and Thought, in the amount of $500 (Canadian), will be awarded for the best article-length essay (between 5000 and 10000 words) by a doctoral- or masters-level student, in French or English. The award will be announced by November 1st following the close of the annual competition (June 30th of each year).
